

All News
Calendar
Maps
Runners

MOC 2010 Day 1: Maps

Posted by Jan Kocbach, 26 Feb 2010@20:45

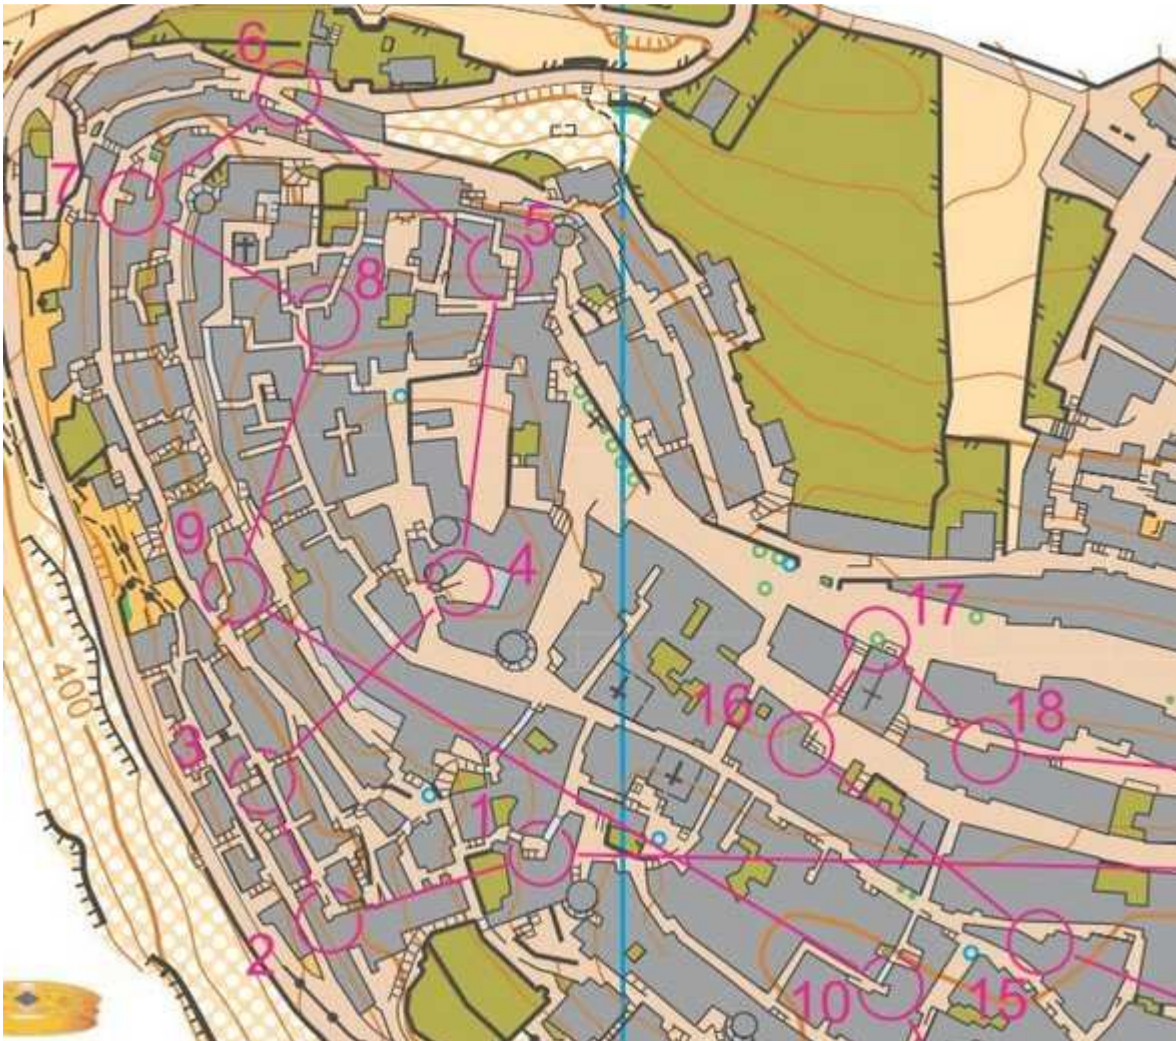

Daniel Hubmann took the victory ahead of his brother Martin Hubmann in the mens class – while Simone Niggli won ahead of Helena Jansson in the womens class in todays night sprint which at MOC. The first day of MOC consisted of a prologue in the morning and a night sprint in the evening, where only the night sprint counts for the total MOC standings along with tomorrows middle distance race.

Both sprints were held in small towns with many small streets – and gave interesting orienteering challenges for the runners. For the big challenges they will have to wait for Forest Umbra tomorrow.

Gabriele Viale has again managed to attract several of the top elite runners – and although there is a long way to the elite field in Portugal O-meeting, this will be another interesting weekend. The terrain of the Middle distance of Saturday is the tricky Umbra Forest (see map extract above from Thierry Gueorgiou's training camp last year).

Maps

Part of the Men 21 course from the Nightsprint.

Here you find maps from the first day of MOC 2010:

- Prologue: Men 21 – Women 21
- Etappe 1: Men 21 – Women 21